FIRM AND FAMILY NEWS

PGI's Holiday Season

The holiday season was full of milestones, new adventures, and family time for the PGI team. In November, PGI focused its efforts on giving back through its charitable arm, PGI Cares. Early in the month, the team spent a day volunteering with Habitat for Humanity, contributing to a home build that supports safe, affordable housing in the community. Alongside volunteer work, PGI organized two holiday drives. We proudly partnered with East Cooper Community Outreach to provide Thanksgiving groceries to Lowcountry families and supported Samaritan's Purse Operation Christmas Child to give Christmas gifts to children around the world. Collaborating with our clients to spread holiday cheer made this season especially meaningful.

Later in November, Paul and Diane went on a cruise through the Caribbean, making stops in Aruba, Bonaire, and Curaçao. They made the most of each island's adventures, going on ATV rides through Aruba, riding a catamaran through the Caribbean Sea, and snorkeling along the coast of Bonaire.

The end of the year brought plenty of excitement and cherished moments for Carissa. In November, she and her husband, Aubrey, adopted a Labrador puppy, Millie! Adopted from the Colleton County Animal Shelter, Millie has quickly become a joyful addition to their home. Shortly after her adoption, Carissa and Aubrey enjoyed a weekend mountain getaway in North Carolina, where both dogs joined them for scenic hikes and fresh mountain air.

Tim hosted his annual neighborhood party, complete with live music, games, and a pig roast! Friends and neighbors gathered to enjoy a lively evening of food and festivities ahead of the holidays. As the season continued, Tim cherished meaningful moments at home, making holiday memories with his grandchild.

Cheyenne had a holiday season full of exciting milestones. She is happy to share that in November, she got engaged! Her now fiancé, Jaylen, popped the question on a fall walk through the park. Following the proposal, Jaylen held a surprise engagement party with all their friends, both local and long-distance. The couple was overjoyed to share the news with the friends and family so close to them.

We wish you a bright start to the new year, and we look forward to seeing you soon!

THAT TIME OF YEAR

The Scammer's Playbook: Guard Against Medicare Scams

Each year, thousands of Medicare recipients fall victim to scams, costing millions and risking personal information. Fraudsters often target older adults, exploiting their trust and reliance on health care. The best defense is knowledge — stay informed to protect yourself.

UNDERSTANDING COMMON SCAM TACTICS

Most schemes fall into a few common categories.

- Phishing emails and texts: Scammers may pose as Medicare, claiming your card is expiring or urging updates. Their goal is to steal your Medicare, Social Security or bank details.
- Medical equipment scams: Scammers use these offers to steal your Medicare number and bill for items you never received, including unrequested genetic testing or health screenings.
- Billing fraud: Dishonest providers or criminals with your Medicare number may bill for services you didn't receive. Review your statements carefully to spot any discrepancies.

RECOGNIZING RED FLAGS

Scammers often give themselves away if you know the signs.

- Unsolicited contact: Medicare rarely calls or visits unprompted to sell or request information. Be suspicious of any unexpected contact.
- Requests for personal information: Only share your Medicare number with your doctor or other trusted health care providers. Medicare will not call you to ask for bank account details or demand payment over the phone.
- High-pressure tactics: Fraudsters create urgency, threatening to cancel coverage or demand decisions. Be wary of promises of free services or expensive equipment. If an offer sounds too good to be true, it probably is.

STEPS FOR PREVENTION

You can take several proactive steps to protect yourself from fraud.

- Protect your Medicare number: Treat it like a credit card. Don't carry your card unless you're heading to a medical appointment.
- Verify before you act: If someone claiming to be from Medicare calls, hang up. Verify calls by contacting Medicare directly, not using the numbers that scammers provide.
- Monitor your statements: Create a free, secure account at MyMedicare.gov to track your claims and services, making it easier to spot fraud quickly. Look for charges for service or equipment you didn't receive and report anything suspicious.

SCAM REPORTING RESOURCES

If you suspect you have been targeted, your report can help prevent others from becoming victims.

- Medicare fraud hotline: Call 1-800-MEDICARE to report suspected fraud.
- Senior Medicare Patrols (SMPs): SMPs are grant-funded projects that assist Medicare beneficiaries in preventing and detecting health care fraud. Find your local SMP at smpresource.org.
- Federal Trade Commission (FTC): Report the scam to the FTC at reportfraud.ftc.gov.
- Local law enforcement: If you lost money or believe that your identity was stolen, contact your local police.

THE GOOD LIFE

The Art of Connection: Staying Social in Retirement

Staying socially active is not just about having fun; it supports your mental, emotional and even physical health.<sup>1</sup> This makes retirement the perfect time to focus on nurturing meaningful relationships.

Building New Friendships

Stepping out of your comfort zone can lead to wonderful new connections. Try joining a local club based on your interests, attending community events or taking a class to meet like-minded people. Platforms like Meetup or various Facebook Groups are excellent resources for finding local activities and connecting with individuals who share your passions.

Maintaining Existing Relationships

Nurturing long-standing friendships is just as important. Make an effort to stay in touch, even if distance is a factor. Schedule regular phone calls, plan a weekly coffee meetup or set up a video chat to catch up with old friends and share your life updates.

Participating in Community Activities

Getting involved in your community is a fantastic way to stay engaged and meet new people. Consider volunteering for a cause you care about, joining a hobby group like a book club or a gardening circle, or signing up for a fitness class. These activities offer a natural way to connect with others who share your passions.

HOW TO ...

Taming the Paper Tiger

Having documents ready and accessible makes managing finances easier and speeds up meetings with your advisor. Here are two effective methods to simplify this process.

One In, One Out

This rule focuses on preventing paper accumulation. Whenever a new statement or document arrives, like a new monthly bank statement, the oldest equivalent document is reviewed and shredded.

This prevents clutter and forces consistent review of financial paperwork; keeps filing systems lean; and simplifies the task of purging old files.

Action Box

This involves separating documents based on the task required. Three trays or boxes are used: "To do," "To file" and "To shred." All incoming mail is immediately sorted into one of these boxes.

This offers a clear way to manage incoming paperwork. You won't miss bills, and documents get filed or thrown out on time.

From Health Care to Wealth Care: Unlock the Power of Your HSA

If you have a Health Savings Account (HSA), you know it helps cover out-of-pocket health care costs. But your HSA can also strengthen your retirement plan. By mid-2025, HSA assets reached $159 billion, with a 30% year-over-year jump in investments.<sup>1</sup> More people are seeing HSAs as more than just a place to stash cash for copays.

Here's how you can maximize your HSA.

CHOOSE THE RIGHT HSA STRATEGY

Everyone's financial situation is different, so consider how to use your HSA:

- The “Pay-As-You-Go” Approach

If cash flow is tight or you're cautious with investments, contribute enough to cover yearly health costs. You'll get a tax break for money you spend anyway, without market risk involved. It's straightforward and safe, helping with short-term needs, even if it doesn't build a large nest egg.

- The “Balanced Saver” Plan

If you can, max out your HSA while keeping your funds in low-risk, interest-earning accounts (like savings or money markets). Your money grows gradually as a backup for future medical costs. This option keeps things predictable.

- “Go for Growth” — The Long Game

Treat your HSA like a retirement account: max your contributions, invest in growth assets and pay health costs from your checking account. Save receipts and reimburse yourself later after your investments grow. Compounding earnings can mean a bigger payoff.

WHY AN HSA BELONGS IN YOUR RETIREMENT PLAN

Analysts say HSA assets could reach $208 billion by 2027.<sup>2</sup> If you invest and let it grow, your HSA can cover future health expenses, one of retirement's biggest costs. Unlike 401(k)s or IRAs, there's no age when you must withdraw from your HSA and no required minimum distributions.<sup>3</sup> That means true flexibility and continued, tax-free growth.

Plus, your HSA can pay for Medicare premiums, long-term care insurance, dental and more.<sup>4</sup> Flexibility to use funds for many eligible medical costs makes your HSA a consistent resource through retirement.

FINAL THOUGHTS

Your HSA is more than just a doctor visit safety net. With top-tier tax benefits and investment potential, it can boost your retirement strategy. Whether you're conservative or growth-minded, there's a way to make your HSA work for you.

Want to review your current HSA approach? Consider reaching out to your financial professional about ways to fit this versatile account into your financial plan.

THE SCOOP

Travel Trends for 2026

As you map out your adventures for the new year, the world of travel is evolving in exciting ways. Whether you're planning a grand tour or a quiet getaway, here are three trends shaping travel in 2026.

AI Travel Agents

Artificial intelligence (AI) is becoming a popular tool for building itineraries, booking hotels and finding the best deals. According to survey specialists Kantar, "40% of global travelers have already used AI-based tools to plan their trips, and 62% are open to using them in the future."<sup>1</sup> Although AI is a helpful tool, rely on your own research to create your final itinerary.

Discovering Hidden Gems

Travelers are sick of arriving at their dream destination, only to find it teeming with other tourists. In response, they're seeking out underrated spots to avoid the crowds. This shift toward discovering new (and sometimes cheaper) places allows for more authentic connections with the locale — without the long lines and disgruntled residents.

The Rise of Slow Travel

The fast-paced tour is giving way to a more relaxed approach. Travel expert Simon Mayle told Forbes that there is a renewed interest in slow transport and an appetite for destinations that combine nature, culture and family connection.<sup>2</sup> This trend means choosing meaningful experiences over checking off a list and taking the time to really savor your vacation.

Winter Refresh

Remodeling Tips To Warm Your Space

Winter is the perfect time to make your space warmer, cozier and more inviting. From sealing drafts to adding personal touches, small changes can have a big impact on your comfort. These simple tips will help you refresh your home and keep out the winter chill.

Draft Defense: Keep the Cold Out

Winter often means higher energy usage, but a few smart upgrades can help keep your home cozy without breaking the bank. Start by sealing any drafts or leaks that let warm air out. Weatherstripping around windows and doors and caulking gaps in walls, floors and ceilings creates a barrier that locks in heat.

Your windows might also be working against you. A 2020 study published in Joule found that “in winter, windows are responsible for 30% of energy loss.”<sup>1</sup> You can combat this by installing heavy-duty plastic film on your windows to reduce heat loss and keep your heating bill in check. It’s a simple, cost-effective solution that makes a big difference.

Getting Rug-Snug

When temperatures drop, you’ll spend more time inside. Make it warm and inviting! Start by focusing on the heart of your living space: the fireplace. You don’t have to replace it with a new one to enjoy its charm. Think about upgrading the mantle or simply rearranging seats or couches to make it the center of the room if it isn’t already. Don’t forget the floors! Area rugs aren’t just stylish; they’re also great insulators. Adding a thick wool or plush rug to your living room or bedroom can help trap heat and keep your feet toasty on chilly mornings.

Beat Back the Winter Blues

Sometimes, the winter season can snow you in. Turn cabin fever into creativity with a few simple projects. A fresh coat of paint in a bright color can make a room feel lighter. Use it to create an accent wall that draws attention to family photos or artwork. In tiled rooms, like the kitchen or bathroom, re-grout or re-caulk tiles for a clean, fresh look. DIY enthusiasts can invite the kids or grandkids over to help build a unique shelf or table that will have your family’s fingerprints all over it.
